Older Adult Financial Capacity Assessment Webinar 10 Continuing Education Hours

The Older Adult Financial Capacity Assessment Course helps psychologists expand their work as experts in legal cases that fall under the jurisdiction of Probate Court. Offered through Wayne State University's Department of Psychology and the Institute of Gerontology, the course is taught by Institute of Gerontology Director Peter Lichtenberg, PhD, ABPP, and University of Louisville Professor Benjamin Mast, PhD, ABPP. Drs. Lichtenberg and Mast are board-certified clinical geropsychologists with years of experience conducting capacity assessments and providing expert testimony in court hearings. The instructors provide background, review actual cases, and discuss capacity assessment approaches across 10 topics. Participants will strengthen their skills and confidence about performing expert work in civil legal cases involving financial capacity, guardianship, and conservatorship, as well as in report writing and testifying in depositions and at trial. The live on-line course will be provided through GoTo Meeting.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the end of this course, participants will be able to:

1. Discuss ethical issues in capacity assessments and preparing to be an expert
2. Describe core competencies for capacity assessment
3. Conduct whole person assessments
4. Conduct financial capacity assessments
5. Describe financial exploitation and its relationship to capacity assessment
6. Assess undue influence
7. Assess guardianship and conservatorship cases
8. Enhance skills in work with attorneys, giving depositions, and court testimony
9. Assess testamentary and contractual capacity
10. Improve legal case report writing and strategies for enhancing your practice

COST

The complete Older Adult Financial Capacity Assessment Course provides 10 CE in psychology and costs $350. Fees are payable to the Institute of Gerontology after the applicant is accepted into the course.
